

The temple of female sense

Sunday, 16 December 2007

All men love certain body parts of the female body, the ones they would like to see, touch and taste more than any other. Therefore, in most cases, they quickly rush to these body parts. However, it is better to go slow! It's better to have permission for experiencing these body parts, and you would get it if the woman judges that you are worthy of it.

Trust is a psychological imperative for women. Her body must have trust in your body, your hands and your capability. To gain her trust, you mustn't perform quick moves, nor release loud voices.

Sounds

You must begin the seducement with her most important organ, her ears that are actually very sensitive on verbal stimulation like flattering. Words are a strong aphrodisiac. Turn her on with quiet whispering, while your lips are touching her ear.

Flattering will take you far. You must give her compliments about her body constantly – regardless of how long you are together. Every time when you make love choose one or two of her body parts and give her particular compliments for those body parts. The next day, after these great awards, her self-esteem and self-confidence will rise. She will notice her body parts you mentioned and be proud of them. This everyday self-awareness will raise her sexual desire exponentially.

Smells

If you want to influence sexual response, you must link certain smells with sex. Remembering smells is stronger than any other type of remembering. You can use certain smells like aphrodisiac and stimulants. The most effective smells in the bedroom are lavender, lotus, vanilla and amber.

Fill your room with aromatic candles, clean and fresh sheets, flowers, perfume, incense and oils. But don't overdo it. One or two aromas will do you good. Don't forget making her get used on your body smell. That sweat, soft smell of sex in the summer, that masculine smell of hot hormones that were on her body after your going away.

Tastes

Cooking for you beloved one is a good way for reaching her appreciation. She will probably want to repay you for your generosity and caring. Women and girls constantly think about a picnic in bed. A quick look of food on the bed would widen her imagination. Include tender, exotic little desires – some very sweet chocolate, strawberries in white chocolate, champagne, cream and cakes. Playing with food on her body will stimulate a gentle feel of healthy, generous and tasty desire.

Touches

Touching her body must vary from teasing her, touching her soft and strong. A friendly touch of her bottom while she is walking isn't a bad thing. Pass your fingers through her hair. If you want to present her a real, strong touch, lift her up and take her to the bedroom. Satin sheets, velvet covers, shirts made of Kashmir, silky pajamas, lacy underwear and leather trousers may excite the woman's sense of touch and offer her unstoppable pleasure and excitement.

Be gentle with her breasts. Admire them and handle these wonderful creations of the woman's body carefully. Be soft. Don't pressure the nipples like they are a computer keyboard. Gently stimulate the nipples and feel them on your palms with circular movement. Kiss them and suck them tenderly. Tap them with your tongue. Stimulate them on the same way you stimulate her clitoris. And finally, combine kissing her breasts with gentle stimulation of her genitals.

After all of this thorough dedication to her senses and fulfillment of her sexual imagination, it's unlikely that trust is going to miss. You become worthy of her trust and the road towards her treasure is opening.